

What's the idiom?

Instructions: Match the food idioms to their definitions.

as cool as
a cucumber

The person that someone loves most of all and is very proud of.

not to be
someone's cup
of tea

Very calm and
relaxed, especially in a difficult situation.

to be like two
peas in a pod

To depend completely on just one idea, plan, or person so that you have no other possibilities if things go wrong.

put all your
eggs in one
basket

Something that is very easy.

the apple of
someone's eye

Something that
provides your
main income.

a piece
of cake

To earn money
to support your family.

bread and
butter

To be involved in a lot of different things.

to have a finger
in every pie

To waste time feeling
upset about something
bad that has happened
and cannot be changed.

cry over
split milk

To have very little or no money.

bring home
the bacon

Someone or something you do
not like or do not consider interesting.

not have
a bean

Used for saying that two people look, behave, or think exactly the same.

World Food Day

What's the idiom?

Answers

as cool as a cucumber

Very calm and relaxed, especially in a difficult situation.

not to be someone's cup of tea

Someone or something you do not like or do not consider interesting.

to be like two peas in a pod

Used for saying that two people look, behave, or think exactly the same.

put all your eggs in one basket

To depend completely on just one idea, plan, or person so that you have no other possibilities if things go wrong.

the apple of someone's eye

The person that someone loves most of all and is very proud of.

a piece of cake

Something that is very easy.

bread and butter

Something that provides your main income.

to have a finger in every pie

To be involved in a lot of different things.

cry over split milk

To waste time feeling upset about something bad that has happened and cannot be changed.

bring home the bacon

To earn money to support your family.

not have a bean

To have very little or no money.